Kaiser's Youngest Son, Joachim, a Suicide

Kaiser's Son Prince Joachim, Shoots Himself

Fears that Former Empress Will Die as Result of Shock—Kaiser is Notified of Suicide.

Berlin, July 19.—Former Prince Joachim, youngest son of the former Kaiser, committed suicide at Potsdam Sunday at his home in Villa Leignitz. He shot himself and died at a hospital a few hours later. Prince Eitel Fritz, his brother, stated that Joachim was suffering from "a fit of excessive dementia."

The body was taken to Potsdam Chapel. Eitel Fritz is the only one of the Hohenzollern family near by as the whereabouts of the other brothers, William, Adalbert and Oscar unknown.

"CROWN PRINCE" HEARS OF FAVORITE BROTHER'S DEATH
The news of the sudden death of Prince Joachim came as a great blow to his brother, the former German crown prince, who only this morning learned the news from Adjutant Von Muller.

The relations between Joachim and his mother, the former empress, were of the most friendly nature, the former being the favorite of the family. The ex-crown prince confided his morning with his mother. Per-son and probably will go to Doorn, the refuge of the former emperor, this afternoon.

JOACHIM WAS BROKE AND OUT OF A JOB
Berlin, July 19.—The news of the death of Prince Joachim's son, Prince Eitel Fritz, was brought about by scandal. They said that the prince was financially embarrassed through his restricted finances. Like his brother, he is believed to have been in need of funds, owing to the limited allowance from the crown funds permitted him by the Prussian government. Prince Joachim is reported to have been brooding over the ultimate fate of the former royal house and the criticism to which his mother had been subjected in Germany. Prince Joachim was said to have been the favorite son of the former German emperor, and his death was a great blow to her.

FEARS FOR EX-EMPEROR'S SUICIDE
Doorn, Holland, July 19.—The announcement of Prince Joachim's death came to Doorn castle like a thunderbolt.

The former German emperor, who during the last week has been again seriously troubled by his heart ailment, is believed to have been in need of the tranquility. The ex-emperor, however, has been greatly affected by the untimely end of his favorite son.

R. R. BROTHERHOOD MEETING IN CHICAGO ON WAGE AWARD

THOUSAND UNION OFFICIALS TO PASS ON NEW SCHEDULES.

BILLION ASKED Increase Would Amount to That Sum—R. R. Labor Board's Decision.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, July 19.—If reports reaching railroad brotherhood leaders regarding the wage award to be reached tomorrow by the railroad labor board are correct, the decision will be unacceptable and will be rejected, union leaders declared today.

Thousand Present.
One thousand general chairmen of the sixteen recognized unions are meeting behind closed doors to discuss their future course. While none will predict publicly that the general strike is a possibility if the award is unsatisfactory, they assert privately that trustworthy information reaching them is that the award is so low it will not be accepted.

Ready to Strike.
Some leaders say the temper of the men is such that they doubt whether an immediate walkout, unauthorized and uncalculated, could be averted if the men are not satisfied by the board's decision.

Bitterly Opposed to Award.
Both W. G. Lee and S. M. Heberling, representing the two big switching organizations, are said to be bitterly opposed to the award which they understand is to be handed down, but they are working with the others to prevent any hasty action by their men.

While the leaders of the recognized unions are in one conference, 100 chairmen of local unions of the new American and Engineers' associations, which called the strikes in April, gathered to await the award. John Gruening, president of the Chicago Engineers' association, present body of all the new unions, said his men would pass on the award independently of the recognized brotherhoods.

Restoration of Rights.
The new unions demand restoration to their former seniority rights before returning to work. The demands and it is understood there will be nothing in the award to be handed down tomorrow to cover the case of the strikers.

POLES WITHDRAWING FROM LITHUANIA
Warsaw, July 19.—The Poles are withdrawing to the south and southwest from the railway junction of Lida, which has been occupied by the bolsheviks in their drive in the direction of Grodno.

This bolshevik sweep across Lithuania is giving the soviet forces possession of a rich harvest, as they are occupying thousands of acres of grain and stock. The bolshevik population is fleeing before the bolshevik onrush, the peasants crowding the roads with their livestock and vehicles loaded with household goods.

It is said in Polish quarters that the retreat on the northern front is being conducted in an orderly way, according to plans. The Poles, it is declared, lost little rolling stock and not a single working locomotive.

T. Monaghan, director of customs, placing a special control on the Canadian side.

There is still two weeks for boys to work in order to qualify for this camp. Call at the Gazette office or write and all information relative to the Camp will be sent.

EUROPE DETERRED BY WILSON'S STAND IN MAKING PEACE

SENATOR HARDING JUMPS TO THE ATTACK ON LEAGUE ISSUE.

HOUSE'S LETTER Former Aide of Wilson Discloses that Treaty Could Have Been Made in 1918.

Marion, Ohio, July 19.—Pressing his fight against the "splendid accord" established yesterday between President Wilson and Gov. Cox, Senator Harding declared in statement today that the triumph of the democratic ticket this year would mean "a continuation of the foreign policy which has so grievously disappointed both Europe and America."

Harding to the Attack.
Apparently foreseeing the issue as the paramount campaign issue, the republican candidate adopted an aggressive program of striking at the Wilson policy. He took for the text of today's attack a statement on the league attributed to Colonel House and just published in this country.

Col. House's Revelation.
"We are beginning to understand," said Senator Harding, "the mistake made in the relationship of the United States to Europe, just in time to proceed to a referendum intelligently. This year, other than the president, who best knew the whole situation at Paris, was Colonel House. He tells us in his 'Treaty' that the suggestion of a preliminary peace treaty was made very soon after the armistice, and that the treaty could have been made before Christmas of 1918."

The Republican Idea.
"All along this has been the reputation of Wilson, of what ought to have been done, but this is the first official knowledge that Europe wished such a preliminary peace treaty. The authentic revelation is peculiarly interesting at the moment when it is announced that the administration means a continuation of the foreign policy which has so grievously disappointed both Europe and America."

Blocked by Wilson.
Colonel House's statement, to which Senator Harding referred, was contained in a special cable to the Philadelphia Public Ledger from London. In it the colonel was quoted as saying that the preliminary peace treaty concerning army, navy, reparations and delimitation of boundaries "could have been made by Christmas of 1918, and would have been not only the usual but the obvious thing to do."

Soldiers Attacked By Civilians; Two Are Killed

Street Fighting by Sinn Feiners and Military Result in One Dead, Many Wounded.

Cork, July 19.—Two military lorries loaded with soldiers which passed through the streets of Cork at three o'clock this morning were attacked by civilians with bombs and blown up, between 60 and 70 soldiers were injured. The civilians threw 29 bombs.

This attack followed a night of terror into which the city was plunged as a result of street fighting in which Sinn Feiners and the military participated. Two men were killed and some forty were wounded in the gun fighting, which brought the total of casualties well over the one hundred mark.

The Sinn Feiners used the guerrilla tactics which had been outlined in the plan of campaign of the republican army. The fighting broke out as the result of a bayonetting incident in the street in which a former soldier was killed. About 10:00 p. m. indiscriminate firing started in virtually all sections of the city. The casualties reported up to this morning were one dead and fourteen wounded.

The firing was participated in, it is stated by military patrols in motor lorries and armored cars. After midnight the streets were comparatively quiet, with the military patrolling them, but there was occasional firing up to 2 o'clock this morning.

Lumm is in the county jail awaiting appearance some time this afternoon before United States Court Commissioner Stanley D. Tallman.

From the village is talking about it today. His arrest is as much of a surprise to himself as it is to the Lumm family. How the Lumm family, who are George Thrift, Beloit, knew he was making the "shine" is more than Lumm can explain.

"Lord, I didn't tell a soul," he related at the jail this morning. "The first batch spoiled and I was well along with the second when they stepped in. I was making it for my own use. Would not have dared to sell it. 'Raisins and corn syrup was my mash.'"

The mash and the still were still hot when the party arrived at the jail Saturday night.

COX SAYS THAT HE DID NOT RUN HIS NEWSPAPER

Denies Responsibility for Pro German Attitude and Editorial Utterances Going On for Two Years.

Dayton, O.—The answer of Gov. Cox to the uncovering of certain editorial articles which appeared in his Dayton News in the two or three years immediately preceding this country's entrance into the war and are proving embarrassing to him as head of his party's ticket, as a reiteration of "I did not write or edit these editorials myself and I did not see them before they went into the paper."

Who Was Responsible? The governor said the editorials which were regarded by some as pro-German had been written by George B. Burba, then editor of the Dayton News, who is now editor of the Columbus Dispatch, is quoted here as saying over the long distance telephone to Gov. Cox that he never complained to him of the nature or tone of any of the editorials under fire and that if the articles displeased the governor, he had never heard of them. He said he had never been ordered to discontinue them. The resignation of Mr. Burba, the Cox newspaper was duly simply, he said to his desire to accept a position with the Columbus Dispatch.

He is said to be still on friendly terms with the editorial expressions. Gov. Cox's paper editorially denoted any suggestion of sending troops to Europe as late as April 1, 1917, and that it was before the United States entered the war.

"Victory by Germany," read the worst thing the Dayton News was told in another editorial. On Sept. 3, 1916, this editorial appeared in the governor's newspaper.

There is a thing to remember when the world is talking war. The navy of Germany and of the United States would be more powerful than Great Britain's. In other words, a combination of the two would be more powerful than the combined forces of the world. It is not the navy of Germany and of the United States that is the danger to the world. It is the navy of Germany and of the United States that is the danger to the world.

All Were Allies. Editorials of a similar nature appeared from time to time as it was regarded such articles that the governor was questioned recently and made this reply:

"I do not want to attempt to disclaim the responsibility of a publisher for the editorial statements of his newspaper. I do, however, want to emphasize the fact that I never read or saw any of the editorials which were under fire before they went into the paper."

Stands on His Record. "I defy anyone to show a single utterance or writing of mine in which I have said anything that any sane person could consider as pro-German or pro-peace. On my record as Ohio's war governor, and those who doubt it, let them go to the records of the Ohio statehouse. I know where I stand."

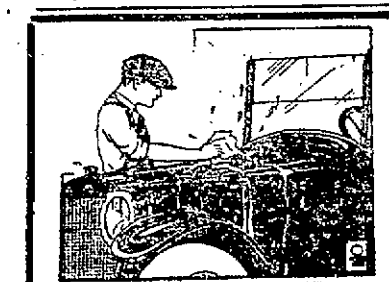

The governor was reminded that the articles under question had been printed in the Dayton News, and that he had plenty of opportunity as publisher of the Dayton News to order their correction or make it clear to his editorial or make it clear to his editorial or make it clear to his editorial.

Expulsion German Stand. "Those articles," the governor said, "were times even when the relations of the United States and Germany were threatened with controversy over the British blockade. I defy anyone to prove that I ever questioned the part of the United States in entering the war, or American determination to carry on the war to a triumphant conclusion."

How I have stood in this best shown by the manner in which I was treated by the German vote in my last election as governor.

Began With War. The governor pointed out the counties of Henry, Mercer, Logan, Boone, Putnam and Monroe, where there is a large population of German descent, as places where his vote had been light. He called attention to Hamilton county, where there is the strongest German population, which he carried by a generous majority.

Many Boys and Girls Can Do the Same Thing in the Garden

RAYMOND DOWN, WINNER OF 1919 GARDEN CONTEST

Yes, this is Raymond Dowd, of S. Palm street. This picture was taken last summer of Raymond in his cabbage patch with his corn as a background. We remember him as the champion gardener of 1919. Raymond is a year older and is still in the farming business and with a greater scope to his work. He is using more land and he has discovered new things to do and more up-to-date methods of doing things. He is now an "SA" which means that he will be in the high school building in the fall. He is planning to enter the freshman class in Agriculture for a student of farm animals, their breeds and their feeding and care. The practice work that he is doing in the garden back of his parents' home, on three rented lots and the equivalent of a lot of railroad land and the care of his cow can fairly be counted as the equal to a semester of book study.

Raymond has a cow, a high grade Ayrshire. He has her blanketed to keep off the troublesome flies during these summer days. He must have fed her during the winter so he is raising both sweet corn and field corn. But he has no silo so he is doing the next best thing, raising stock on the green grass. He has a large patch of potatoes, enough for the family if they do well. These he is spraying with salic acid arsenate as a cheaper and more satisfactory way for the bugs than Paris green. He is now thinking of warding off the blight by using Bordeaux mixture.

COOLIDGE RESTS AT MOUNTAIN HOME

Vice-Presidential Candidate Having A Peaceful Visit to Old Scenes.

Rutland, Vt.—Up on Plymouth mountain, among the hilly fields in which he worked and played as a boy in the sheltering quiet of the old homestead, to which he was welcomed by his aged father, Gov. Calvin Coolidge, republican candidate for vice president, is resting in mind and body and obtaining inspiration for the speech of acceptance at his home in Northampton, Mass., July 27.

Friends Met Him The governor arrived at his old home on his birthday, Sunday, having motored from Boston. There was no great popular demonstration, but instead were the smiling faces of the few friends who recognized him as he passed, and the parental greetings. When the reunited family sat down to dinner the table was graced by a splendid birthday cake sent by the state of Massachusetts.

The governor's father, who is about 70 years old, lives alone on the farm, which is a quiet Vermont character, portraying the staid and solid qualities of the old Green Mountain boys, rugged and healthy and yet distinguished son, J. C. Coolidge was a member of the Vermont legislature for many years, serving in both houses, and was once stable of the town of Plymouth for 40 years. The farm is situated on the top of Plymouth mountain, and which is between Killington on the north and the lesser hills on the south. It is isolated from civilization, being 11 miles from Ludlow, and is reached by stage from Ludlow.

Church of Boyhood Directly across from the farm is the church which Gov. Coolidge attended in his childhood. Next to the church is his birthplace. It has now been converted into a general store and is in a ramshackle condition. Immediately above the farm, beyond the cheese factory, is the wooden schoolhouse where Gov. Coolidge got his early schooling.

The signal event of the day was the fact that it was the governor's 48th birthday. He received from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts a beautiful birthday cake. It was three layers, about 18 inches across, and on the top was written in pink frosting: "Calvin Coolidge—1872-1920." Below this inscription was the seal of Massachusetts, and below this the words: "Have Faith in Massachusetts."

Had A Birthday The governor did not appear to be fatigued after his journey and

MERLIN HULL SCORES BOOZE PLANK IN PLATFORM

Madison, Wis.—Emphasizing his views as a dry candidate, Secretary of State Merlin Hull in a statement condemns the work of the conference which endorsed Col. Gilbert E. Seaman as a candidate for governor. He declares the conference exemplified machine politics and was like the meetings in the old days when booze, boodle and bossism were features of Wisconsin politics. In part his statement says:

"Pretending to oppose Socialism, it endorsed a beer and wine plank very similar to expressions on the subject commonly found in Socialistic platforms."

"One main purpose of the gathering seems to have been an attempt to compel all Republicans to line up with the Milwaukee political machine or be branded as Socialists or Nonpartisan League. The thousands of independent and progressive Republicans who have nothing in common with Socialism nor the Nonpartisan League but who never have and never will submit to the dictation of wet reactionaries, will warmly resent this effort to frighten people into the machine camp."

"Another purpose seems to have been to commit the Republican party to the resurrection of the bootleg industry. The women of Wisconsin will have the right to vote at the November elections. If not the Senate, the primary law, the hope and those who so blindly assume that the state and the Republican party are necessarily controlled by the bootleg industry, will have the note of warning so well sounded by Mrs. Youmans at this meeting."

"Instead of being a real party conference designed to promote party harmony and success, it was an effort to use the party name and label for the purpose of the political machine which brought it about. Those few people who seem to regard the great state of Wisconsin as merely Milwaukee's back yard are now of valuable assistance to the Republican party."

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

The women of the country are still confident of ratification of the Nineteenth amendment. When the ratification has become history the women will celebrate the triumph of their century-long struggle for political equality within the capitol's walls.

The jubilee will mark the victory for which Inez Mulholland and numberless other women have worked and hoped. Plans for a brilliant ratification celebration have been under way ever since the thirty-sixth state seemed near a possibility. The jubilee will be under the auspices of the National Woman's party.

Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, a member of the advisory council of the woman's party and director of several spectacular pageants in Washington, D. C., heads the committee in charge. Most important of the ceremonies will be the presentation to Statuary Hall in the capitol by the woman's party of the busts of three suffrage pioneers, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott.

The busts of these three great leaders will be placed among those of men great in American history. The statues are the work of a woman, Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, the famous American sculptress. Only one other woman is now honored in the national hall of fame—Frances E. Willard.

Prominent men and women in all parts of the country will attend the jubilee and every woman's organization in the country has been asked to send representatives. Now the only thing necessary is the thirty-sixth state.

A WOMAN OF YESTERAY, TODAY AND FOREVER

If you want to remain young, don't wear a corset, says Sarah Bernhardt. Also she gives a few more "tips" on how to retain youthful agility, and inasmuch as she intends to come to the United States at the end of this year, her advice has some merit.

"Moreover, do not eat only what you like, but eat moderately of everything and take yourself just enough to keep healthy."

"Take a good rest frequently during working hours, and do not worry about anything."

Counsel along these lines, she admits, may be irksome to busy Americans, and so she added another commandment for the benefit of involuntary prohibitionists: "Drink only water."

SHOOTING THE RAPIDS

The recent trip of C. G. Stephens, who went over Niagara Falls in an oak barrel, recalls to mind Mrs. Annie Adson Taylor, who went over in October, 1901, and lives to tell the tale. Mrs. Taylor also went over in an oak barrel. She made the trip in 43 minutes. The only other living person who successfully made the trip is Bobby Leach. Both of these survivors live in Niagara Falls.

MOTORMAN BLAMED FOR CRASH WITH CAR

Complaint of negligence on the part of the motorman on street car No. 25 has been made to police by Harry V. Ross as a follow-up of a collision on West Milwaukee street at 9:15 on Saturday evening. Mr. Ross, driving his father's machine, said cars were parked on each side of the street between Burns alley and River street so there was no room for traffic.

The motorman tried to stop but either he was going too fast or his brakes did not respond, Mr. Ross explained. He demanded that I get out of the way almost as soon as he struck me, and instead of waiting until someone could get at the wheel, he reversed, knocking my car into another and tipping off a fender.

The motorman was negligent, showed poor judgment, and in my opinion is unfit to drive a car under present traffic conditions. I am complaining with the idea of attempting to stop such hazard on our main thoroughfares."

When a farmer gives a tramp his breakfast there is no occasion for thanks on the part of the tramp; he expected to say nothing and saw wood.

Relative to this company's building activities in the addition they purchased on Highland avenue, in the First ward, Manager Charles Riley said today that work there hinged on the demand for lumber during the spring. His company has a enormous supply of lumber and resident materials stored ready for use.

American Legion Has Post in Far Off Shanghai

Shanghai—The Shanghai post of the American Legion has been given its official name by the national organization in America and is to be called the General Frederick Ward post, after the noted American soldier who organized in China the "Ever Victorious Army" in the Taiping rebellion, afterward turning the command over to the British general, "Chinese" Gordon. The Shanghai post has 160 members and has been authorized to form other posts in China.

CITY OUTSTRIPS OTHERS IN STATE IN HOME ERECTION

"Janesville is building a great many more residences than many cities in the northern part of the state," declared John Hansen, Chicago, who recently purchased a number of lots at St. Mary's and Fifth avenues and is erecting a block of moderately priced homes.

"I was surprised to find the demand so great here and likewise the number of buildings being erected was a surprise. I was in the north for several weeks and nowhere was there as much boom as Janesville is experiencing."

The Matteson-Lindstrom company has commenced the erection of another block of homes in the second ward. There will be 20 in the latest work. Cellar excavations have already been made.

Railroads Disobey Commerce Body, Cause Fuel Famine, Say Operators

Loading lumber on a coal car at Cincinnati.

Washington—Failure of the carriers to obey the coal movement order is tending to enhance the critical coal and car shortage throughout the east and north, according to bituminous coal operators, in Washington, to attend the conference called by the National Coal association. They charge that coal cars are being used for the transportation of lumber and other materials in direct contravention of a ruling by the interstate commerce commission.

Col. D. B. Wentz, president of the association, told the operators that they were called together "to avert what is rapidly getting to be a very serious situation in the nation's fuel supply."

He asserted that there is coal enough to supply all industries, but declared the railroads are furnishing only between 35 and 40 percent of the cars needed to move the coal.

He added that the nation is confronted with a shortage of 5,000,000 tons of coal today, and that before December 25,000,000 tons must be moved, but that the latter movement, in view of the present conditions, was an utter impossibility.

In summarizing the situation as it exists today, the following instances were cited by the operators to show the need for fuel in all parts of the country:

In the lake regions steel manufacturers, public utilities and other industries have closed or are facing a possible shut down within two or three days because of the fuel shortage.

In the north and New England states public utilities have only a few days supply of fuel on hand, while woolen mills and textile manufacturers already have closed in many instances.

The nation is in the grip of a fuel shortage, which seriously affects the increased demand for coal, suffering and industrial shutdowns. There is sufficient coal at the mines, but no cars to move it. If transportation can be obtained next winter's suffering can be averted.

Youngest Yank in World War Mustered Out; He's Not Yet 15

St. Joseph, Mo.—The youngest soldier in the American army during the World War has been mustered out. He is Raymond Burleigh, who shortly before his twelfth birthday enlisted in the army under the name of Fred De Reaux in St. Joseph.

Raymond enlisted in June, 1917, in Kansas City, giving his age as 11 and enlisting officers as 20 years.

Raymond Burleigh.

He drove the private cars of generals, colonels, etc., transported ammunition and supplies and got so used to the roar of bullets and the noise of big guns that they sounded "like a swarm of mosquitoes working in a thunderstorm."

Raymond, since a "child" has been interested in mechanics, and when he was assigned as chauffeur to the aviation section he stuck around a spin through the air. That was just enough to whet his appetite and one bright morning the pilot of a certain machine turned about to see him speeding through the air with a perilous swing.

"What the h—," declared the aviator wonderingly.

But it was only Raymond, who, having "copied" two machine guns, had set out to win the war.

"They told me when I get back that I looped the loop three times, but I didn't know anything about it," he said. "For this venture, he was sentenced to six months in the front line trenches. Which was the next best thing to having a plane of his own."

He fought at Chateau Thierry, where he was killed enough German gas to put him in the hospital several weeks, during which time he lost use of his voice.

On Feb. 25, 1920, he was returned to this country and received, following a personal letter written by General Pershing to the effect of a war hero. On Feb. 5 he got his final papers at Philadelphia.

U. S. Woman Spills Wine On China's Largest Ship

Shanghai—When the biggest ship ever built in China was launched at Shanghai recently, Mrs. Charles R. Crane, wife of the newly appointed American minister to China, caused the bottle of champagne which she was to start down the ways, christening the vessel The Mandarin. The Mandarin which will have a carrying capacity of 10,500 tons, is the first of four sister ships contracted for with the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Works of Shanghai by the United States Shipping Board. The other three vessels are to be launched in coming months.

SWIMMING LESSONS

Installation No. 8.
The two wrists grips have been explained in the previous installment. In this section we will endeavor to describe more grips and explain the carry's which follow the break. After breaking the grip it is best to go around him to his back, or turn him around so his back is toward you.

Front Neck Hold
One of the most dangerous of all holds is the front neck hold. This may develop into a strangle hold. In this hold the victim has his arm wound around your neck drawing you close to him. To break away from this grip place your right hand (if you are right handed) either on the side of his neck or on the back of his head. Do not strike the neck with the palm of the hand over the mouth and the thumb and forefinger clutching the neck. Place your left hand in the small of his back and drawing him towards you with the right hand push the head back. Do not be afraid to use force. You will not harm him. In a short time he will release his grip because he can not get a breath and the strain on his back. Then it is up to you to make for his back.

The Back Neck or Back Strangle Hold
The back neck or back strangle hold is a hold which should be avoided more so than any other hold. In the grip he is in back of you and has his arms around your neck. To break this hold you must grab both of his hands and throw your head back with all the force you can. Then it is up to you to make for his back.

The Front Arm Lock
The drowning person grasps the rescuer around the neck and above this hold your fists are placed against the victim's body, wedge open your arms and pull them out. The last part must be done fast for if it were done slow the head may be in a position for the front strangle hold. If he has his head below the break would be to pull your arms out and swim to safety with your victim hanging on for you see you have both arms and legs free with which to swim.

The Back Arm Lock
The back arm lock is very much like the front grip as he grabs you below the elbow. You pull out your arms and swim to shore while in the other hold where he has his arms around you must grab both of his arms so they won't slip towards the neck, roll over on your back and swim to shore using your legs for propulsion.

The Lesser Death Grips
As having been said before a drowning person grabs by no special rule. He grasps whatever is closest to him expecting it to save him. The nerve grips might be classed as the major grips as they require more strength and cool headedness than those that will follow. The following lesson on minor death grips is given. One in which the rescuer does not have a hold around the body but is grabbing some part of the clothing or extremities of the rescuer. He may grab you by the feet. To break them turn over on your back and draw him towards you by drawing your knees to your chest and with a sudden extension of the legs push him away from you. In case he grabs your swimming suit or regular suit as the case may be draw him up as much as possible in the same way and break by the push. If he grabs either one of your hands it is up to you to see that you get around in back of the drowning man before you attempt to break away, for if you remain in front of him you will possibly draw him towards you in the break.

There's A Good Fairy Ready To Go To Work For You, Madam

Don't you often say, "I wish?" and doesn't the wish often go unanswered because there's no way to get it answered?

Here's an offer to pick your wish up and carry it right to the very place where the answer's waiting for it—all without trouble to you as easy as the rubbing of a magical wishing-ring.

It's done with a little classified ad in the pages of the GAZETTE. You'd never thought of advertising, madam. But you've wished—and classified advertising is just the modern fairy way of answering wishes.

Classified advertising has opened the way to fortune for hundreds. It has made trades, sold old furniture, found servants, found jobs—it has done the work of a modern fairy.

All the town and surrounding country will read your wish on the classified pages of the GAZETTE, and somebody has the answer.

How To Write A Want Ad

First, know what you want to say. Then say it. Use simple words. Make your meaning absolutely clear. Leave nothing to the reader's imagination—as this want ad does:

FOR SALE—Upright piano. Call at 110 James St., evenings.

This advertiser was a penny wise and pound foolish. He gave so little information that it is safe to say that he did not receive many answers.

What about the finish of the piano? The make? The tone? The condition of instrument? The price, terms, etc.?

No one but the owner knows. Surely one should not expect results from such meager information.

Now, read this for an example of how to write a want ad that will bring replies:

FOR SALE—Beautiful mahogany upright piano at a bargain. A standard make that would add grace to any home. This instrument has a wonderful tone and should be heard to be fully appreciated. Will sell for a small payment down and balance in weekly payments to suit. Owner leaving town. Send the before it is sold. Address R. C. B. for appointment, or call at 110 James St., evenings.

What if this want ad did cost a little more, it is bound to pay by the inquiries it will bring—and inquiries from prospective buyers are what this advertiser wants or he wouldn't advertise.

SUMMER RESORTING AT HOME.

If Janesville had the hotel which her citizens have hoped would be built, but which has been stayed for reasons that do not seem to be at all final to the men and women who subscribed to the project, we would have many tourists here seeking summer resort weather. If there is any place in Wisconsin more pleasing in climate than Janesville, or a city more attractive to the eye with all the verdure and shade, it has not yet got into the guide books.

FRONT PORCH OR BALLYHOO.

The Honorable Franklin Roosevelt, candidate for vice-president on the democratic ticket, wants a campaign of fireworks and ballyhoo and insists that Mr. Harding is something of a sissy in refusing to leave his front porch. Possibly, Mr.
Roosevelt, being young and impulsive, has forgotten the happenings in political history pertinent to front porches. In 1834, Mr. Blaine took a swing around the circle, spoke to great audiences and was defeated by Governor Grover Cleveland, of Albany, who remained at home. In 1858, Gen. Benjamin Harrison, by his remarkably good speeches, almost daily made from his front porch
at Indianapolis, Ind., won an election.

Mobs and masses crowded to hear William Jennings Bryan, the "Boy orator of the Platte," insulted to sophistry set to music and the tintinulation of his voice, and voted for William McKinley, who remained at his modest Canton home, meeting delegations and discussing the issues. Three times Mr. Bryan has chopped the circumambient air into ribbons and failed.

Recently Mr. Hughes traversed the country, winding up with a painful episode in San Francisco—and failed. Should a presidential candidate "reason with unprofitable talk, or with speeches wherewith he can do no good?"

A presidential candidate could not reach with the sound of his voice ten per cent of the voters.
He can reach them all through the newspapers—speak to 100,000,000 people every day from both front porch and interest more people than both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cox in playing the Bryan ballyhoo to the idly curious.

The promotion of Maj. Collin C. Ball, U. S. A., inspector of the Wisconsin National Guard, to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the regular army, is pleasing to many people in this state, and particularly here in Janesville, where he has been so helpful in the organization of the tank corps
and the cavalry company.

THE FIRST OF THE KAISER LINE TO SUICIDE.

Prince Joachim, the youngest son of the former Kaiser, is dead by his own hand. He is the first to go. When the war ended in Germany's defeat it was freely predicted that the deposed Kaiser would kill himself, but like all men who are possessed of exaggerated ego, he is tenacious of life.
This son, however, much of a roue and mixed in many affairs that were questionable, being cowardly
by nature, has removed himself from the arena.
When he discovered that the "divine right"
of princes was worthless without an army
he lost his "sand."

Prince Joachim, like his brothers, could not meet the changed conditions. Work, the gaining of a livelihood, was farthest from the Hohenzol-lern mind. The Prussian people, already overburdened with taxes and war indemnities and the plunder of the action by the military autocrats, gave him what would have been enough to maintain a family in America in comfort, but the prince must have all the fustian and feathers of his shorn imperiality. He might have got a job if he had the capacity, but the Hohenzollern line is sadly lacking in that particular.

THE DOMINATING MR. WILSON.

Following the conference of candidate Cox and the president, the nation is told that Mr. Cox will carry out to the letter the Wilsonian ideas of the league of nations and other policies of the president.

That is what the nation has been waiting for.
Mr. Cox assures us that the Wilson dynasty is not to die with the passing of the president from office, no matter what the declaration in the platform may mean. Having assumed, therefore, all the Wilson burdens of Daniels, Baker and Burleson, the forces are well set. Tuesday there will be a declaration by Mr. Harding of the campaign issues in which we may be assured he will not advocate a policy that will keep America in a turmoil of European policies for the next generation.

After reading several reports of investigations of the coal situation it becomes thoroughly clear that there is plenty of coal for some 7,000 years still buried in the ground. So far that is as far as we have gone in getting a winter supply.

With four different kinds of republican platforms in this state and the nonpartisan league
besides, it ought not to be hard for most anybody to vote in a Wisconsin republican primary this fall.

By shooting Pablo Gonzalez and a few other candidates, Oregon will have less opposition for the presidency in Mexico. However that method cannot be used in Wisconsin.

That's a good name, "Resolute." It sounds of the old Yankee days when America ruled the sea
with its sailing ships.

Why doesn't the Third or Fourth or Fifth party
pick a popular idol like Babe Ruth for the presidency?

Putting Detroit on the Sea

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—Having gained a gratifying victory over its neighboring rivals in the recent census reports, Detroit, with all the ambitious fervor of the newly rich, now seeks new worlds to conquer. Having outstripped Pittsburgh and Cleveland, it is anxious to become pals with Paris and London. Having risen rapidly in the national esteem, it now craves international recognition. In other words, Detroit wants to become an ocean port.

Ever since the Great Lakes cities were little children, they have been hankering for an ocean outlet, but it was not until Detroit took the helm and began steering the legislative machinery that the idea began to appear feasible. Now fifteen different states are backing it, to say nothing of the southeastern Canadian provinces, which are eager to see it put through.

Viewing the positions of Buffalo, Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, and Chicago on the Great Lakes, it may be difficult for you to see how they can ever be on very intimate geographical terms with the Atlantic ocean; but it is the simplest thing in the world, once the Detroit board of commerce explains it to you. All that that will have to be done will be to remove a few miles of rapids from the St. Lawrence river by building a couple of dams, and establishing an interrupted channel of navigation from Duluth, at the end of Lake Superior, to the Atlantic ocean.

This, however, is not the immediate problem.
So far as the engineering part of the scheme is concerned, that may be taken for granted. The present struggle is with the Canadian government and with our own government—to make them realize the value of this project to the rest of the world, and to get them to appropriate the necessary millions of dollars for its fulfillment.

To discuss and devise ways and means of doing this, the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Congress is to meet in Detroit on July 22, at which Congress will be in attendance as well as delegates from all of the fifteen interested states will be present.
Mr. Herbert Hoover has also been invited, probably to lend an air of economy to the enterprise, although what Mr. Hoover will say when he strikes the higher cost of living in Detroit will doubtless be worth hearing. Senator Townsend of Michigan, known as the father of the Lakes-to-the-Ocean movement, Medill McCormick of Illinois, and Major General Lansing H. Beach, chief of engineers, U. S. A., are other distinguished Americans who will attend.

However, there are no special qualifications for admittance to the congress. Anyone who is interested in the project and feels that one of the great desires of his life is to sail straight through the Great Lakes to the sea, will be cordially received as a delegate by the Detroit chamber of commerce. Manufacturers who would like to ship their goods by such a route, instead of making two or three changes in transportation, will be most welcome. Ask for Mr. Tom Munger. He will tell you what to say.

Mr. Munger helped Detroit prepare its argument for a straight passage lakeward to the ocean, and he knows of many more ways than there should be such a convenience than anyone else in the world. Although very young, with all the tremendous energy and enthusiasm of youth, he occupies the dignified position of secretary of the Inland Waterways committee.

"This region," Mr. Munger informed us, "has one-third of the country's area and population, and produces more than half of the nation's principal staples, cotton and tobacco accepted.
The heart of the continent provides the surplus of wheat and other grain, of cattle and meats and dairy products and the principal minerals. To be statistical, it produces 75 per cent of the wheat, 65 per cent of the corn, 100 per cent of the flax, 60 per cent of the cotton, and 75 per cent of the things this region does produce as much as 60 and 74 and 85 per cent of Mr. Munger told us, but after a while we began to get a trifle bewildered, and came up for air only at the mention of the railroads.

and came up for air only at the mention of the
railroads.

"The St. Lawrence route is the answer. It will give western production free road to market. It will do more. It will create new production.
Cheap transportation will reveal opportunities for the horizon of profit. A thousand miles of ocean highway in place of a thousand miles by rail; a saving of 500 miles in actual distance to northern Europe; the elimination from certain routes of two transfers which often equal in cost the entire line haul.

"The West is lost. Its yearly losses by delay,
by embargo, by spoilage, by interruption of industry, are enormous. If ten per cent of its wheat missed its market—as it might—say nothing of a total breakdown—one year's loss would be more than this whole job—the St. Lawrence route—costs."

It is estimated that the cost of dredging out the rapids in the St. Lawrence river and opening it for navigation throughout its entire length will be only sixty million dollars, so far as this country is concerned. We say "only sixty million" because this is not a large sum compared to all the money that has already been spent in improving the Great Lakes. Millions were spent in attaching Lake Superior to Lake Huron; millions in connecting waters between Huron and Erie; and Canada is now spending more than fifty millions
in improving the Welland canal between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. Canada will also be contributing fifty million to the St. Lawrence route, making the cost of this project altogether
a hundred and ten million dollars.

Detroit claims that a large part of this money will be returned by the development of the horsepower of the St. Lawrence. It estimates that there is available 4,000,000 horsepower, and that the St. Lawrence which should pay the entire cost of the improvement. This power, it points out, is needed to relieve the fuel shortage on the Atlantic seaboard, often approaching famine.

After hearing all these facts in favor of the route, it seems incredible that it should be opposed by anyone or anything. But Mr. Munger believes that the railroads do not seem to realize the awful seriousness of their condition; the fact that they are growing old and feeble under the strain of moving middle western products, and that at any moment they are liable to cave in.
A mild protest has also been registered by the New York Journal interests, but Mr. Munger believes it too weak to be heard by the rest of the country. As the matter stands now, the international joint commission which handles boundary questions arising between this country and Canada, is preparing a plan for the route which will be submitted to the congresses of both nations in the fall. After that, it will be only a question of a few months, he believes, before the St. Lawrence begins to take on a new shape and the road to Detroit's international fame will be assured.

Out of the Chicago meeting of the radicals and parlor anarchists and others who believe that Washington and Jefferson and their colleagues who helped make the republic, were a lot of doddering idiots, we have a Single Tax ticket and a hybrid Labor-Farmer or is, it Farmer-Labor ticket, and soon there will be a "World War Veteran" ticket and a ticket headed by a 45er. One may appreciate the situation when it is known that the platform of the Farmer-Labor part was so bad that the Honorable C. B. Ballard, of Outa-gamiac county, Nonpartisan league organizer and sworn enemy of espionage, could not stand for it.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

OLDEN DREAMS.
Drowsy old summer, with nothing to do,
I'd like to be drowsy in an' dreamin' with
you;
I'd like to stretch out in the shade of a tree,
An' fancy the white clouds were ships out
at sea,
An' conjure up pictures of treasures an'
things.
All peopled with pirates an' princes an'
kings,
An' just drench my soul with the glorious joy.
Which was mine to possess as a barefooted
boy.

Drowsy old summer, your skies are as blue
As the skies which a dreamy-eyed youngster once knew,
An' I fancy today all the pictures are there—
The ships an' the pirates an' princesses fair,
The red scenes of battle, the gay, cheering
throngs
Which greeted the hero who righted all wrong.
But somehow or 'other, these old eyes of mine
Can't see what they did as a youngster of nine.

Drowsy old summer, I'd like to forget
Some things which I've learned an' some things which I've hurt;
I'd like the old vision of splendor an' joy
Which were mine to possess as a barefooted
boy.

When I dreamed of the glorious deeds I would do
As soon as I'd galloped my brief boyhood
through;
I'd like to come back an' look into your skies
With that wondrous belief an' those far-seeing eyes.

Drowsy old summer, my dream days have gone
An' the things which are real I must now
look upon;
No longer I see in the skies overhead
The pictures that were, for the last one
I have learned that not all of our dreams
can come true.

That the toilers are many and heroes are few
But I'd like once again to look 'up there an' see
The man that I fancied some day I might be.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

"Why Change Your Wife?" is a movie title?
"Change your habits," says the Canon. "Going to the movies is a bad habit. 'News,'
"if it is her habits, what then?" There is no then. Women don't have habits. A habit is a fixed, settled mode of physical or mental action.

With the British government refusing to agree to an Irish republic, and the Sinn Fein refusing to agree to anything but a republic, the result is a most perfect, believes the Law-

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Both Hull and Seaman are good men who, we believe, have no chance of election in this year. Wilson's chief opponent will be with Dillman and Blaine. The lieutenant governor, if given the full support of the La Follette wing of the republican party, would be the probable choice.
But we cannot see how the prospects are reduced by the candidacy of the attorney general. Mr.
Blaine has shown himself a remarkable vote-getter. He has received him a logical and independent and drew a large vote. He surprised everyone by the way he ran for attorney general in the primaries two years ago. Unless either Dillman or Blaine withdraws, Wilson should now head both of them in the primaries.
Stevens Point Journal.

On the other hand, Senator Wilcox had the endorsement of more than 70,000 Wisconsin republicans when he ran in the primary two years ago, which clearly indicates his position as a candidate. He entered the field this year, the first to announce himself, it will be remembered, of the present aspirants.—Milwaukee Journal.

Aside from the later recommendation
(the wet plank) there is nothing in this state controversy among the republicans of Wisconsin. This particular plank is concededly "wet," but appears to be a concession to the sentiment of the people of this state, both republicans and others. It does not conflict with the republican national platform, but simply is intended as an expression of Wisconsin sentiment. This issue now in effect. And as the candidate endorsed for governor is specifically pledged to this change, it is not surprising that the issue of this issue in the coming campaign, both as affecting the state
primary and the following state election.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

We have the anomaly of the Philip wing writing one platform and the La Follette wing another, which could not be harmonized in a thousand years and yet both are candidates.
We have the Philip wing presenting a candidate for governor who would scarcely shake hands with the La Follette faction, and yet both are candidates. The Philip wing former are for Harding and Coolidge, while the latter refused to accept the ticket nominated at Chicago and are prominently identified with the national party. The Philip wing is in a tight corner between these two factions. La Follette would win with one hand tied behind him. Apparently he has a better right to the republican nomination than Philip and his cohorts. Conservative republicans will deny this, but it is votes which count. The Philip conference at Madison on July 12, for instance, was a success of the Philip wing of the campaign, whereas the national republican party is for sticking to less than one per cent. Which is to be regretted as the orthodox view.—Appleton Post-Crescent (Ind.-Rep.)

A great opportunity is offered Colonel Seaman, for from being a minor candidate in the race he steps at once into foremost place. His opening statements will be looked for, and his backing he already has the best promise to be most exciting and interesting.—Eau Claire Leader.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
July 19, 1880.—Due to part of the large cylinder press being in Milwaukee for repairs, the Gazette is issued in a half-sheet, two pages tonight.—The Lotus and the City Belle took picnic parties up the river yesterday and all had a pleasant time in the woods.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO
July 19, 1889.—A young man from Booneboro, Mo., named Clarence Cleveland was drowned
in the river yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock.
The body was found floating about half a mile from the railroad tracks on the west side. He swam out far and was unable to get back.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
July 19, 1900.—The grovelers of the city held their annual picnic at Waubesa Beach today, and although four hundred went, the number was smaller than was expected. J. T. Co-lahan, for fourteen years railway employe and for many years a resident of this city, died at his home on School street last evening.

TEN YEARS AGO
July 19, 1910.—Another attempt was made last night to break open the safe of the Janesville Savings and Loan company, but was unsuccessful.—The offices of the new Industrial and Commercial club will now be located on the fourth floor of the Janesville Hotel. George Mathis is now Mr. Armand's assistant.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A BABY—28

Keeping Me Cool

Excessive heat is directly and indirectly fatal for young babies. I don't know why it is that some mothers seem to think that the whole of a mother to her baby is to keep the baby from "taking cold," whatever that may mean. We babies are a lot warmer than some chilly adults. We manufacture much more heat, in proportion to our size, than grownups do. It is correspondingly harder for us to dispose of this superfluous heat without injury to ourselves. Yet just think of the thousands of poor little things who are kept swaddled in woolen shirts
and several layers of other clothing in hot weather. The more ignorant the mother, the greater is her fear of letting the baby enjoy an air bath. Some college graduates are so ignorant that it is enough to make a fellow sick thinking how their unhappy infants are forced to sweater through the hot weather—if they do get through it at all. What the deuce do they teach girls in college, anyway, that hurts them so?

Each teach them that the care of babies is rather beneath the dignity of a "cultured woman." By gosh
I wish my dad did not marry a cultured woman.

Every day in hot weather a baby
should have a morning and an evening
bath, tepid water, for cooling purposes.

Every baby, breast or bottle fed,
needs many drowsy periods every day in hot weather. If a baby develops diarrhea, besides the first aid treatment described in the chapter on diarrhea, the food should be diluted with water, say one-third water, for a few days.

In very hot weather, a diaper is sufficient clothing for several hours
in the heat of the day.

If a baby's feet and hands are warm and the baby appears happy and content, it is to be sure he has plenty of clothing. In any weather or in any circumstances.

Milk for feeding the baby had bet-

Samsons Present Two Games to Kenosha, 2-1 and 5-3.

By George McManus.

Perring Wrenches Ankle; Samson Pitching Is Good; Errors Costly on Sunday

If Perring had only been in the game—but Manager George wasn't. In the first inning of Saturday's contest, Papa turned his ankle sliding to first and was out of the battles for the rest of the two game series with the Simmons Bed Co., at Kenosha.

The Samsons lost Saturday, 2 to 1. They were defeated again on Sunday, 5 to 3.

Yet that is not to say that the team went all to pieces. The rest of the game played hard, but they couldn't get on the long end of the scoring.

Saturday, Big Bill Lathrop did the hurting. He was good, allowed nine hits—each headmaker getting one—while the third and fourth innings, was reached for the runs that won. Metten started by getting a clean single. Murphy sacrificed down him base line and Nagel helped him around by a drive to first. Stewart proved a lucky pinch hitter with a little single, but the run came when Herbert drove one into Lathrop's glove which he could not do.

In the fourth the Bedmakers pounced again on Lathrop. Dobbins with one down knocked a long double and took third on Hughes' short hit into left field. Cole gave the apple a ride for a good single and scored Dobbins.

Kenosha Eases Up. All the time Murphy and Lathrop were both pitching good games with the Kenosha keeping the edge. In the seventh, however, Murphy eased up and passed the baton to Herbert. Lathrop tightened and fanned Elliott. He gave Beale a chance to hit the pit, however, and Schwind brought in the Samsons' lone marker. In the ninth, the Janesville crew tried to stage a rally. Lathrop got on first with a hit and took second on a bunt to left field. Two flies to left and right field were safely garnered in, however, and the game ended.

Sunday's contest was replete with thrills. It was played before 2,300 people. A runner, crowded in the holding down the third sack in the holding of Perring, knocked a homer over the fence in the sixth to tie the score. Dobbins, the Simmons catcher, made the throw, but it was by knocking a clean circuit swat into the bushes bringing in Lee Magee from second.

Howard Starts Wild. Howard, the Bedmakers' moundman, started wild because of a sore arm and permitted a lead off hit in the first, but settled down after that and was fairly effective. Dumont pitched nice ball, striking out eight men, but the support behind him broke down in the fourth and sixth. Mow badly off form the Samsons were ill-used by the fact that the Kenosha catcher made two errors at first sack. Schwind, Holland and Shook each made errors that proved exceedingly costly.

FAIRIES TOY WITH ELKHART BALL CLUB; WIN TWO CONTESTS

Beloit fans are still wondering what kind of baseball team the Fairies are. The team handed a 20 to 2 drubbing to the McCays of Elkhart on Saturday.

McCoy's of Elkhart yesterday does not tell the story. Olson, the Fairy pitcher, was not even a regular member of the Gateway city team. He is not even a regular player on any team. Yet he struck out one and blanked the Indians' bunch.

The game to be played between the Weenies and Cubs did not take place Sunday. The Weenies did not appear because it was not a Junior league game.

Some of the most disgraceful acts are performed by the most graceful sinners.

ALL STARS DROP TO BELOIT TEAM

Lost Saturday 8 to 2—Win Sunday on Ump's Decision 7 to 6, but Decline Victory.

After being defeated before a large crowd of spectators at Beloit Saturday by the Beloit Tigers 8 to 2, the Janesville All-Stars were awarded yesterday's game here, 7 to 6, by Umpire Schaefer on a technicality.

With the score 5 to 5, the Stars scored a run in the ninth to tie the game. The technicality was that the third baseman of the Stars, called by his fellows to let the ball roll and it went foul. But prior to that several Beloit players had made attempts to stop it. The Stars ruled that since they had tried to play the ball, the fact that no one touched it, was not sufficient to cancel the run. The colored team refused to play and called their team out of the field. The Stars, however, do not claim victory and will play the game off here later.

Five hundred people witnessed the game here, showing that amateur ball has its place. After the Tigers beat a lead of 5 to 1 mainly because of errors, the Stars tied up steadily until their end of the figures was five runs.

Hancock field, Beloit, was the scene of Saturday's defeat, when the Stars bowed before "Gints" Martin 8 to 2. The colored heavy hitter struck out 14 men and allowed only six hits. The Stars' lineup was: Dobbins, catcher; Wilson, first; Dobbins, second; Wilson, third; Dobbins, fourth; Wilson, fifth; Dobbins, sixth; Wilson, seventh; Dobbins, eighth; Wilson, ninth; Dobbins, pitcher.

A misjudged fly in the eighth counted for a double for the negro team and a single scored another run.

Stars lineup, both games: Dobbins, c; Graesslin, 1b; Wilson, 2b; Dobbins, 3b; Dawson, lf; Zahn, rf; Graesslin, cf; Cullen, cf; Martin, p.

Beloit lineup Sunday: Elzie and Pearson; Saturday: Martin and Pearson.

New York—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist, announced his willingness to fight negro boxers.

Lipton Plans to Remove Burton, Skipper of Shamrock

New York, July 19.—Capt. William P. Burton, skipper of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, America's cup challenger, who won the first race from the Resolute, has been removed from his command, according to official announcement aboard Sir Thomas' yacht, Victoria.

Although the Shamrock is leading the Resolute at the start of the series, the handling of the challenger by Capt. Burton has been severely criticised by experts.

Still in Command
Sandy Hook, N. J., July 19.—Speculation above and below decks of the America's cup racing fleet at anchor today in the Horseshoe centered upon the successor to Captain William P. Burton, whom Sir Thomas Lipton plans to remove as skipper of the cup challenger, Sir Thomas and Captain Burton have had several talks on the matter and Captain Burton still continues as skipper of the challenger though the announcement that he has been succeeded in command may be expected at any time.

LEWIS, LAKOTA STARS NAMED TO COACH INDIANA
George Lewis, mentor of Madison high school athletes and former Badger star, will coach basketball and baseball at the University of Indiana next year. His appointment was announced today by the Indiana director of athletics.

Lewis who graduated from the University in 1917, was an all-conference basketball and baseball selection.

During his year as basketball and football coach at Madison high school he has turned out some of the strongest prep teams in the state, establishing his success last fall when Madison decisively bested Appleton in the football title game.

Lewis is known particularly to Janesville basketball fans as the crack forward of the Lakota Cardinals. While he did not play here much last season because of serious illness, he started and finished the season with the Cards.

EVERY day we hear a good deal of talk about the reckless spending of motor car owners.

True, in some quarters perhaps.

But the people we serve as a whole are those who balance value and cost.

Tire users put the responsibility for tire service up to us.

We put G & J Tires up to them.

On the basis of what G & J Tires do.

On the basis of what G & J Tires have been doing for more than a quarter century.

G & J are the American pioneers of pneumatic tires.

And the continuance of this original foresight has kept the G & J quality records clean.
